"I have kept in close contact with the applicant on a professional level as advisor and also requesting her tutorial services by helping me with film making workshops for my classes. I have been teaching for over twenty five years and many promising students have studied on my course, but Ms David is without doubt a remarkable young lady. Usually a student will have one particular talent or strength, Fanni has several. Her illustrative skills are exceptional, her natural flair for design is progressive and her concepts are always challenging and innovative. Her attention to detail has enabled her to excel in various disciplines demonstrating immaculate crafting for presentations... Ms David is assertive, self-motivated and is passionate about her craft and any other endeavours she is involved in... Although she is accommodating and an asset to any team, she is also productive and can take precedent and lead a team with confidence... she was well liked and respected by all, particularly her class mates who admired her work and her original approach to a design in general. She is bright, well-mannered, articulate and her command of the English language is excellent."

"I consider Fanni as a very dedicated and talented student combining raw talent and high intellect. She responded positively and with enthusiasm and she pushes her limits in exploring theory and practice to any given assignments. Always questioning, altering her ideas without settling down to quick and obvious solutions. From my personal perspective Fanni truly represents the image of the ideal student to work with...
